

Web Education Frequently Asked Questions

Q: What is a web education program?

A: A web education program is a broadcast that is delivered over the Internet using streaming media technology. Participants can listen to a streaming audio presentation through their computer speakers. They can also participate in the interactive question-and-answer session by submitting questions through their computer.

Q: Will I see the speakers talking during the program?

A: Live video will not be used for this event. This particular program will display a photo of the presenter. Presentation slides will be used for this program.

Q: How do I check whether my computer is compatible with the program?

A: We encourage you to check your computer's compatibility in advance. The program is broadcast through Windows Media Player and RealPlayer. To determine whether your computer is compatible, you should run the System Check via the following URL: www.visualwebcaster.com/syscheck/systemcheck3.asp. You should also ensure that your computer has working speakers and that your computer volume is turned up.

Q: What if I don't have Windows Media Player or RealPlayer programs?
Can I install this software free of charge?

A: Yes, Windows Media Player and RealPlayer can be installed on your computer free of charge. Follow the instructions provided on the System Check site.

Q: Will I be able to ask questions during the program?

A: Yes, you will have the ability to submit your questions through your computer. The speaker will answer as many questions as possible during the live broadcast. If your question is not answered during the live program, contact the LLS Information Resource Center (IRC) at (800) 955-4572.

Q: How do I join the program on that day?

A: You can join the program at the link provided in your confirmation email and registration packet materials. Here are screen shots and instructions of what you can expect to see that day.
